CONGRESSMAN CARLTON'S GREAT TRIBUTE.

The Programme for Hartwell and Anderson.

ELBERTON, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—Mr. Grady has completely captivated the people of Elbert, and surrounding counties.

His speech today was a marvel of eloquence, and the thousands who heard him are tonight enthusiastic in their praises.

"I have never seen a speaker listened to more stientively, nor heard a speech that so thoroughly captivated the audience," was the comment of a distinguished legislator.

Mr, Grady and party arrived at Toccoa at 10 o'clock last night. They were met by the Toccoa brass band, and Mr. Grady acknowledged the reception from the piazza of th hotel. The party left Toccoa on the special train at six o'clock this mooning. The roads between the two points were lined with wagons and buggies and men on horseback, all HEADING FOR ELBERTON to hear his speech. There were delegations here from a dozen different counties, and the crowd is said to be the largest that ever gath-

Mr. Grady spoke at 11 o'clock on a stand erected in the midst of a beautiful grove of live oaks. Under the extending boughs of the trees were benches enough to hold fully two thousand people, and the seats were so well shaded that there was no necessity for um brellas to keep off the sun's rays. Grady reached the stand every seat was filled, and the crowd extended out for fully one hundred yards in front of the stand. Every foot of space within hearing distance was occupied and hundreds were unable to even get near enough to catch the sounds of Mr. Grady's voice. The crowd numbered fully five thous-

The grove covered about ten acres of ground, and every particle of space not occu-pied by people was filled with wagons and carriages, buggies, saddle horses, carts, and in fact every variety of vehicle. Many people had driven through the country for from fifty to sixty miles simply to hear Mr. Grady'speech. On account of the very large crowd i as impossible for many of these to hear Mr. The speech was

He introduced his remarks by saying that he was not going to address the audience on trusts or combinations, the Western and Atlantic railroad lease, the subject of betterments or prohibition, nor did he propose taking up the valuable time of the audience by discussing the Olive bill, but he wanted to have a plain practical talk with the country people. In eloquent terms he urged the farmers of Elbert to pin their faith to the red hills of their native country by living at home and boarding at the same place. Be independent of all trusts, monopolies and combinations that now overshadow our country. He referred beautifully and touchingly to the comrades that he had once known from Elbert county, and begged that their bones, which now lay beneath the battle grounds of old Virginia, might inspire their successors with a love of their native land. His remarks were received with bursts of applause, which evidenced the fact that the audience to a man was moved by the touching words of the speaker.

Prof. H. C. White, of the university, referred to the vast natural resources of Elbert county in a scientific and practical way, and completely captured his audience by the mas-terly way in which he showed up her re-

After holding the audience for a few minutes in uproars of laughter, he devoted himself to the solid problems that confront the people of the present. His remarks were teeming with wit and brilliancy, and there was no other speech of the day that so completely captivated the audience. This young orator reflected credit upon both himself and the county which he so ably represents. He can have his choice of Elbert county's fair ones.

What Lieutenant Carter Thinks is Necessary to Improve Them.

Washington, July 23.—Lieutenant O. M Carter has ten separate works of improvement under his charge in Georgia and Florida. He asks the insertion of the following named sums in the next river and harbor bill: Improve-ment of the Savannah river and harbor, $2,500,000; Savannah river between Savannah and Augusta, $100,000; Altamaha river, $50,000; Oconee river, $50,000; Ocmulgee river, $50,000; Brunswick harbor, $62,500; Jekvi creek, $33,590; Cumberland sound, Georgia and Florida, $1,000,000.

THINGS TO BECOME LIVELY.

Knights of Labor.

Chicago, July 23.—The executive board of the Knights of Labor will finish their session in this city tomorrow and adjourn. Master Workman Powderly and Secretary John W. Hayes left this city this evening. So far as can be learned the work of the board during the week it has been in session has regulted in few surprises and little besides routine business. It has been determined, however, to attempt a revival of the old Knights of Labor enthusiasm next fall. Some of the local leaders wanted a revival inaugurated at once, Labor enthusiasm next fail. Some of the local leaders wanted a revival inaugurated at once, but Mr. Powderly's judgment was against it. "You can't get up meetings during July and and August," he insisted. He consented to return during the first week in October with A. W. Wright, of the board, and one of the editors of the Knights of Labor Journal. At that time a big meeting will be held in the central music hal', at which both these gentlemen will deliver addresses.

LOSSES BY THE FLOOD.

West Virginia Famers Reduced to Want-Several Lives Lost.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 23.—In the flooded district the waters have subsided and the farmers can now see where they stand.

Many have lost their all and will be compelled to ack chaits. It is now known that eight ten. Many have lost their all and will be compelled to ask charity. It is now known that eighteen persons lost their lives by the flood. There may have been other drownings in Jackson county. All the bodies have been found but two. Six good iron bridges went out besides many wooden ones in this county. At Morristown thirteen houses were swept away, besides many others in that neighborhood, and much suffering is the result. In Braxton county the soil was washed on to low lands to the depth of six feet. The county commissioners returned from a tour of inspection of the condition of the county today, and find the loss in bridges to be about $25,000. Many farmers are unable to pay $25,000. Many farmers are unable to pay taxes this year. The loss in this county will reach $50,000.

To a Man who Said He Could Stand Fifteen Hundred Volts. New York, July 23.—In the hearing before the referee of the Kemmler electrical execu-tion case to-day, Thomas A. Edison was put on the stand as witness and if his testimony were to decide the fate of Kemmler, the muderer would surely meet his death in an electric chair. The witness had no doubt, what tric chair. The witness had no doubt, whatever, of the power of an alternating current to kill a man histanter and painlessly and was sure it could be done without burning. The case of Smith, the former witness, was spoken of who was said to have received a shock of 1,500 volts without serious injury. Mr. Edison said he would pay Smith $100 if he would come over to his laboratory and successfully withstand a shock of 1,000 volts.

The Iron Spike Broke.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 23.—[Special.]—B. W. Crow, of the Southern Postal Telegraph company, sustained a fearful accident this morning. He was at the top of a telegraph pole, adjusting the wire, when his spike broke or slipped and he fell down the entire length of the pole to the ground. In falling an iron foot rest in the pole caught him under the thigh, and tore him fearfully through the stomach.

Worth County's Fair. ALBANY, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—Worth county's first agricultural fair opens tomorrow at Poulan, continuing two days. A LADY'S PERIL.

MRS. HERON, OF TENNESSEE, SEN-TENCED TO DEATH

FOR PREACHING CHRISTIANITY TO

The Coreans-The Secretary of State Inquiring Into the Matter-The Story Discredited at Washington.

NASHVILLE. Tenn., July 23 .- Information s been received here that Mrs. Hattie Gibson Heron, wife of the Rev. David Heron, late of Jonesboro, in this state, is under sentence of death in Corea for teaching the doctrines of Christianity. Rev. David Heron is well known as a Presbyterian minister. He went to Corea about three years ago- the wife joining her husband a few weeks later. Mrs. Heron preached the gospel as well as her husand was the means of converting a nobeman in Corea, who began preaching Christianity. The emperor had Mrs. Heron arrested and thrown into prison. Her case was investigated and finally sentence of death was passed. Mrs. Heron was known as the ost beautiful lady in upper East Tennessee. THE GOVERNMENT INFORMED.

WASHINGTON, July 23 .- Acting Secretary of State Wharton, upon telegraphic representations from Congressman Taylor, of Tennessee, that Mrs. Hattie Gibson Heron, missionary in Corea, was to be hanged for preaching the doctrines of Christianity, cabled Minister Diusmore, at Seoul, to investigate the case, and, if necessary, or not too late, to use his good offices in securing Mrs. Heron's release. The state department has no other advices upon the subject.

DOES NOT BELIEVE IT. Dr. H. M. Allen, secretary of the Corean legation, and an American who has spent many years in Corea, was interviewed by a Post reporter tonight in regard to the story that Mrs. Herron was to be hanged in Corea for preaching Christianity. The doctor laughed in ridicule at the story, and said:

"I was amused by it, and I know the Coreans to well too think they would do anything of the kind. The story is altogether improbable. If anything of the kind had occurred, it would have created the biggest sen-sation there for years, and the American minister would have known all about it. More-over, Mrs. Herron was not a missionary or preacher."

The doctor added that the Coreans looked upon Christianity with great disfavor, and had made it a capital crime. They had done this years ago, when they thought the Jesuits were endeavoring to secure control of the govern-ment. The law was a dead letter and merely a form. American missionaries preached in the country, and about two years ago two missionaries who had no passports were sent to Seoul, the capital, when found to have preached Christianity. Nothing was done to

New Bedford, Mass., July 23.—The barkentine Moses B. Tower, Captain Azevads, arrived from Fayal this afternoon, having taken thirty-one days to make the passage. Among the cabin passengers was Captain J. C. Flores and Captain Lapham went on shore. He was very much surprised to be informed by the authorities that he would not be permitted to recruit men or to receive his letters unless the ship was anchored. There being no other alternative, word was sent on board to anchor the ship in spite of the fact that there was no suitable anchorage in case of a change of wind. On Monday, the 20th, nine men were secured and sent on board, the captain and his first officer remaining on shore to finish the recruiting. About 50 clock p. m. the wind sprang up from an adverse quarter, and the ship, although secured by two anchors, dragged toward the shore. The second and third mates were on board and did everything possible to secure the ship, but finding that the wind in-WOULD NOT BE PERMITTED secure the ship, but finding that the wind in creased and that there was no apparent proba pility of saving the ship from going ashore

There was an angry sea setting directly in for the shore. On reaching the surf the smaller boat capsized, and five of the eight men, including the third mate, were drowned. The large boat was stove, but the men succeeded in reaching the shore. Both boats were entirely destroyed. During the night the wind changed and the Frazier swung away from shore, parted her cables and was sent out to sea. Captain Lapham lost his instruments, and all personal property he had left on board.

THE ALLIANCE AND THE WHEEL. The Project to Consolidate the Two

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 23 .- [Special.]-There will be an important meeting in the state capitol tomorrow of representative farmers, members of the Agricultural Wheel and the Farmers' Alliance. At a meeting of and the Farmers' Alliance. At a meeting of the national representatives of these two bodies in Vicksburg, Miss., last November, it was decided that these two organizations, having a single purpose, should be merged into one body, under the name of the Farmers' Laber union. Plans of organic union were agreed upon, and the only thing remaining to complete the union is the ratification by the omplete the union is the ratification by the several state organizations. The meeting of the bodies tomorrow will be the first state meeting to ratify the compact. It is probable that a large number will be present, and there is but little doubt that the action at Vicksburg is but little doubt that the action at Vicksburg will be ratified. At least a hundred delegates are here tonight. J. R. Miles, of Ralston, is president of the wheel, and J. P. Buchanan, of Murfreesboro, is president of the alliance. W. T. New YORK July 23.—The international maritime exhibition, which was to be held in New York from the 21st of September till the 28th of October, will not be held here after all, but will take place in Boston from November 4th till January 4th 1890. The reason that the 4th till January 4th 1890. The reason that the exhibition will leave New York is that the managers could not secure a proper place to hold in. The deceased, formerly a distinguished lawyer of Virginia, lately the editor of the Times-kegister at this place, thirty miles from Asheville, on the Western North Carolina railroad, had just arrived from an outing to Round Knob with some friends. He was standing in the midst of a half dozen of those who had accompanied him, and leaning on the arm of a Texas judge when he fell with a fatal wound in his neck, which was broken by the shot. The assassing had advanced to within two paces and at his back.

The coroner was immediately summoned and of the fifty or more witnesses who had stood about the depot, only a few were examined. The verdict was "killed by a gunshot wound by a party to the jury unknown." Today everybody in town seems to agree as to who was the assailant of the deceased, and public sentiment condemns the coroner's verdict. Threats have lately been made to kill Colonel Page. He was advised to leave. The party making the threat was in town last night, but is gone today. There are endless rumors of a woman's weakness and the de-ceased man's advances. The former is of one of the best families in the county of McDowall, and the latter a man of prominence, bearing, learning and talent. The relatives of the deceased live in Richmond, Va., and will arrive

THE HOWARD CASE.

The Great Impostor Pleading His Own

JACKSON, Tenn., July 23 .- [Special.]-Mr Bullock, leading counsel for the defense in the noted Howard damage suit, closed his argument today. He made a strong presentation of the evidence, claiming that the facts over-whelmingly showed that plaintiff's real name was Fredereick Attyde Howlett, and that he had failed to bring any evidence here to prove his family was named Howard. Plaintiff then arose to reply. The courthouse was crowded with spectators to catch every word. He stated that for the last three years he had been trying to get his case to the jury. He had been villified and slandered, and had borne it. been villified and slandered, and had borne it. Now he was willing to trust his name and reputation into their keeping, He reviewed his life as a Christian, which he claimed was above reproach. He took up the witnesses and showed inaccuracies and conflicting testimony. He then crossed the ocean and claimed that defendants witnesses, who swore he was John Howlett, had contradicted themselves, and some of them swore from a photograph. He held that the Howlett family had said that he some of them swore from a photograph. He held that the Howlett family had said that he was not Fred Howlett, and that defense had failed to show he had scars which his witnesse proved Fred Howlett had. He will close to morrow, and after over six weeks trial the case orrow, and after over six weeks trial the ca will go to the jury.

Five Murderers to be Executed in New York

The People of Raleigh Indignant.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 23.—[Special.]—A great mass meeting of citizens was held in the town hall here tonight, in which indignation was expressed by word of menth and by resolution at the finding of a verdict of not guilty by the board of directors of the insane asylum in the Grissom investigation. Speches were made by prominent and leading citizens, and resolution was adopted recognition, when the the made by prominent and leading citizens, and resolutions were adopted requesting that the board ask Dr. Grissom to resign. If they failed in this, for the governor to ask them to resign, and if they refused, to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of investigating the matter fully. The indignation is intense. In adopting the condemnatory resolutions, there was always an exception made in favor of the member of the board who voted for the conviction of Grissom. The general sentiment is that the verdict of the general sentiment is that the verdict of the board was not in accordance with the evidence.

A Murderous Spot. A Murderous Spot.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 23.—[Special.]—Peter Wheton, colored, was knocked in the head and killed at Mezpah yesterday. Philemon Howard and Birdie Stewart, colored, have been jailed for the deed. This is the third murder at this place since the negroes wrecked the freight train in January last, in which the fireman was killed and the engineer badly wounded. On nearly the same spot two in the murders have been committed, and in both instances the victims were thrown in o both instances the victims were thrown in o the creek, a modest stream, densely over-topped with bushes. The woman, Birdie Stewart, took off her bustle, made of an old "mother hubbard," and left it with other rags by the track to give credence to the tale that the train had struck her and killed Wheton. Shot Between the Eves.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 23.—[Special.]—Oli-ver Jackson, a negro of Anderson, died today from a gunsh of wound inflicted by Hai Powers, night watchman at the depot of the Savannah Valley railroad of that city. The watchman heard a noise in the direction of a car, as if heard a noise in the direction of a car, as it somebody was trying to open a car. He fired upon the negro, first demanding his name, and the same being refused. The ball entered the head just between the eyes. Will Jackson was along with his brother, but was not hurt. The negroes claim that their purpose was simply to sleep in the car, and that they had no intention to rob.

A Disappointed Pugilist.

CINCINNATI, July 23.—Peter Jackson, the Australian pugilist, leaves here today for Detroit with a feeling of deep disappointment. He had been advertised to appear in a sparring exhibition last night in an aptown theater with Tom Lees, but the mayor issued a peremptory order to the manager of the theater not to permit it, and so the house was not opened. This incident shows that the city government will not encourage puglistic enter-tainments. An Electric Fight.

The Capital Electric company is the one with which the city has contracted for 150 are electric lights. The contract was to have gone into effect June 1, but there has been some delay. Without interruption the company would brobably have been ready to begin furnishing the lights before the middle of next month. East of the Mississippi-He Says His Interests Beyond the River Will Command All His Attention-Stock Disposed Of.

NEW YORK, July 23 .- The annot nade today that O. P. Huntington had recently sold 100,000 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio common stock created no surprise and little comment on Wall street, for it was generally understood that he had arranged for the sale of all his railroad property east of the Mississippi, and would devote himself to the management of his roads west of the Mississippi. The sale of the stock makes no change in control, as under the reorganization plan the voting power is vested in the hands of Pierrepont Morgan, J. C. Brown and George Bliss, as trustees, until 1891. "I have sold 100,000 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio common stock to Sper & Co. for $2,500,000. I do not know whether it was for Drexel, Morgan & Co. or not. Other parties are trying to buy 100,000 shares more from me. I expect, in time, to sell all my incrests on the east side of the Mississippi, because my interests west of the river are so large that they will take up all my interests at Newport News at present. I am building there the largest shipyard in America."

OUSTING THE "SOONERS."

The Recent Decision Causes Excitement in Oklahoma GUTHRIE, Oklahoma, July 23 .- The decision of the land office ousting the "sooners," as those who entered Oklahoma before noon of April 22, are called, is causing excitement throughout the place, as fast as the news spread. Two hundred men were in Cline yes-terday morning waiting for the land office to open, a large majority waiting to file claims. The effect of the decision will be felt every where throughout the territory and endless trouble seems in store. It is thought by many that in equity the same ruling must apply to town lots, when 600 or 700 persons in Guthrie alone will be effected. If it does not, then when other parts of the Indian Territory are opened whole cities may be expected to spring up before the opening day.

The Nationalists of New York Dissatisfied With the Postponement.

MEDICAL.

HAS been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Pills. Travelers by land or sea are liable to constipation or other derangements of the stomach and bowels which, if neglected, lead to serious and often fatal consequences. The most sure means of correcting these evils is the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. The prudent sailing-master would as soon go to sea without his chronometer as without a supply of these Pills. Though prompt and energetic in operation, Ayer's Pills leave no ill effects; they are purely vegetable and sugar-coated; the safest medicine for old and young, at home or

ELECTING TRUSTEES.

MR. HOWELL'S BILL ENDORSED, BY THE COMMITTEE.

The Day in Both Houses of the Legislature-A Trip to See Georgia Marbles-Fulton County Bills in the House.

The bill of Mr. Clark Howell, of Fulton county, providing for a change in the method of the choice of trustees of the State university came up before the committee on education yesterday afternoon, Chairman Candler pre-

Mr. Howell stated that since the bill had been introduced he had received a number of letters concerning it from prominent persons all over the state, and that several of the trusthes had written him, all approving the bill in the main. He had conferred with such other members of the house as had been considering this question and after a full discussion, and after a more therough consideration of the matter, he had determined to yield to the suggestion which had been made to have the new trustees, provided for in his bill, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate in stead of cleeted by the people. Mr. Candler, chairman of the committee on education, had deeply interested himself in the matter and was of the opinion that it would be better policy to have the governor appoint instead of the people elect, in order that the matter may be kept more entirely out of politics. This was also the idea of the sub-committee, to which the bill had been referred, and is the only material change in the original bill. The sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. Howell, Candler, Johnson of Jones, Tuck, Calvin, and Williams of Telfair, had considered the question thoroughly and reported the bill with the recommendation that it be returned to the honse for passage by substitute as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted that from and after the passage of this act the board of trustees of the Uni-Versity of Georgia shall be composed of one member from each congressional district in the state, and two from the city of Athens, all of whom shall be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate under the rules governing the appointment and confirmation of other officers of this state required by law to be confirmed by the senate.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted that the term of office of said trustees shall be eight years, and until their successors are appointed, confirmed and qualified.

Three of them shall be appointed for two years, three for four years, three for six years, and three for eight years; and as the first terms of these appointees expire their successors shall be appointed and confirmed, blennially, thereafter for a full term of eight years.

It is the intention of this act to provide for the appointment of two trustees from the city of Athens, exclusive of one from the congressional district in which said city may be located, and in the appointment of two trustees from the district shall be appointed, respectively, one to each of the three short terms above provided for.

Sec. 3. Be if further enacted, that persons to be eligible to the office of trustee shall be citizens of this gate, shall be residents of the district from which they are appointed, shall be at least twenty-dive years of age, and shall not be trustee of any other male college or university, excluding branch colleges of the university and high schools or academies, and shall be chosen with special reference and fitness for and capacity to exercise the duties of the office of trustee.

The governor shall be ex-officio a member of the board of trustees, and shall steen dist meetings when possible, and shall be entitled to all the privileges of membership in the board.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, that in case of the death or resignation of any member of the board the governor shall full such unexpired term in the same manuer as above provided for, such appointment to be confirmed by the secnate at its next session after the same is made.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, That the board of trustees, as above provided for, shall meet in the city of Athens at 12 o'clock on the third Wednesday in September next, and shall elect one of their number as its prestiding officer, who shall be called "the chairman of the board of trustees." Thereafter they may meet subject to their own order, but they must assemble in annual session in the city of Athens at 12 o'clock on the third Wednesday in September next, and shall elect one of their chairman of the board of trustees." Thereafter they may never subject to their own order, but they must assemble in annual session in the city of At the board shall receive as their compensation the sum of four dollars for each day of actual attendance at the meetings thereof, and mileage in actual fare, to and from the place of meeting by the nearest practicable route from their home; said per diem and mileage to be puid by the state treasurer out of the funds of the state on presentation of vouchers of the members, approved by the chairman and signed by the secretary of the board; provided the per diem of said trustees shall not be paid for more than ten days in any one-year. See. S. Be it further enacted that the board of trustees shall submit to the general assembly, through the governor, biennial reports of their transactions, together with such information as is necessary to show the condition of the university, and with such suggestions as it may, think conductive to the good of the university and the cause of education in the state. See, 2. Be it further enacted that all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

THE BILL WILL PASS. The committee adopted the substitute unanimously and requested the chairman to ask for a special order for the bill at an early date.

That the bill will pass there seems to be no reasonable doubt. The house, so far as the members have yet expressed themselves, appear to be practically unanimous for such a bill and it is probable that it will pass the senate as easily as it promises to pass the house. If the bill becomes a law, the new board of trustees will meet in Athens to organize on the third Wednesday in September next.

To See Georgia Marbles. Mr. Howell, of Fulton, has invited a number of members of the house to visit the marble quarries, in Pickens county, next Saturday, for which he has provided a special car, by courtesy of Superintendent Glover. The party will leave here at 7:45 on Saturday morning and return at 6:30 Saturday evening, via th Western and Atlantic and Marietta and North

This will be a delightful trip to those who have not seen the immense marble works in north Georgia. They are now in full operation, and the machinery at the quarries is said to be the finest in the world for the purpose of quarrying. Those who go will be surprised at the magnitude of the marble industry in Geor-

It is probable that the house will hold a continued session Friday next, or have an after-noon session that day, in order to clear the clerk's desk, for Saturday's trip.

The Commissioner of Agriculture.

Mr. Atkinson's bill to make the commissioner of agriculture elected by the people was made the special order in the house for next Tuesday.

It will be remembered that at the last session the bill passed the house by an overwhelming majority, but was tabled in the senate because of a provision to cut off two years of Commissioner Henderson's term. The commissioner had already been elected for four years, and the act was to become operative two years before that term expired.

"The senate," said a friend of the bill, "would have passed the bill undoubtedly but for this provision They did, in fact, offer to amend so as to make it operative at the expira-tion of Commissioner Honderson's term, and pass it as amended. Mr. Atkinson declined this. As the bill now stands this amendment is incorporated, and the bill will probably pass with little or ne opposition. The commissioner at present is appointed by the governor, and has a larger patronage than any other state-house officer. His own salary is $2,000 a

The Day in the House.

It wasn't a day to delight the spectator—it was just a common, ordinary, six-times-a-week day, with what might be called the ordinary run of legislation. These called the ordinary run of

The discussion on the bill was long drawn out. but this was to be expected. The measure is one of great importance, and the members who had sudied it had a good deal to say. Mr. Gamble wanted to amend by restricting the voters to frecholders, but this was opposed by several members and was lost. Mr. Atkinson of Coweta had an amendment provid ing that the election should be recommended by two successive grand juries. This was adopted, but the bill was tabled after receiving 55 votes upon the

G. W. B. Raider, living seven miles from Athens, writes: "For several years I suffered with run ing ulcers, which doctors treated and pronounced incurable. A single bottle of B. B. B. did me more good than all the doctors. I kept on using it and every ulcer healed."

D. C. Kinard & Son, Towaliga, Ga., writes: "We induced a neighbor to try B. B. B. for catarrh, which he thought incirable, as it had resisted all treat-ment. It delighted him, and continuing its use he was cured sound and well."

R. M. Lawson, East Point, Ga., writes: "My wife had scrofula 15 years. She kept growing worse. She lost her hair and her skin broke out fearfully. Debuity, emaciation and no appetite followed After physicians and numerous advertised medi-cines failed, I tried B. B., and her recovery was rapid and complete,"

There is a glass lamp-chimney so tough that it almost never breaks in use; if it does, the dealer gives you a new one. It is of the finest lead glass; it is also perfect in form and action.

. The glass costs several times as much as common glass. The chimney costs two or three times as much as others to make; the dealer of course has to pay for it; but he can afford to sell it as usual. Some object to it. "Can't afford to sell it," they say; but they can. It brings good-will of more value than all their brittle-chimney profits, good profit besides.

THE FALSE CHRISTS

WHO ARE INFESTING THE COAST

COUNTIES. Bloody Sacrifices Called For-A Little Girl

Slaughtered-A Magistrate Assaulted-The People Wild. SAVANNAH, Ga., July 23 .- [Special.]-Liberty county is no longer a peaceful district.

A new false Christ threatens the peace and prosperity of the whole county. Life has become insecure. Fanaticism has led to murder. The man Carter, who was mobbed Sunday the followers of the new impostor, Edward James, is likely to die. Dr. Henry is attend-ing him. His skull is crushed, and his thigh is badly cut. James's followers had gathered in Walthourville plantation, about four miles from Walthourville. About 500 persons had gathered to hear the False Messiah rave. James is a justice of the peace. On Thursday last he announced his divine mission. He preaches

IN A STARK NAKED CONDITION. He urges his followers to make sacrifice to the Lord. On Sunday as much as $400 was offered as a sacrifice. James tore up the paper money and scattered the silver broadcast through the woods. Whether he secreted some of the coin and paper on his per-son does not appear in the evidence, but is extremely likely The crowds that follow James increase daily, and their viclence is becoming a terror to the law-abiding elements of both races. The idea of sacrifice has spread to a horrid extent. The offers of money no longer satisfies these violent and misguided persons. Human blood is demanded. The story of Abraham offering up Isaac is told with awful effect. On Sunday a girl four years old was left at home several miles from Walthourville plantation, by her parents. On the return of the wretched mother and father

THE CHILD WAS MISSING A search ended in finding the body cold in death. A cruel murder had been committed. The child's throat was cut and its ears had been slit off. Suspicion naturally attaches to the parents, but the coroner's inquest, which be held today, will possibly furnish a clew to the guilty parties. Sheriff Smith has ar-rested seven ring leaders of the mob that put Carter's life in jeopardy. As the 16th of August approaches, the date prophesied for the world's ending, fears of increased violence are entertained. A band of several hundred is expected to march out of the country towards the favorite north, and at same time to beat > Glynn County Will Join in the Collective Exhibits-The People Waking Up to the Importance of the Piedmont Exposition.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 23 .- [Special.] - S. W. Postell, representing the Piedmont exposition, was here today posting handsome lithographs of that event where they will attract most attention, and conferring with the prominent citizens of Brunswick with a view of securing exhibits from Glynn county. He met with much encouragement, and it is safe to say Glynn county will be well represented at the exposition not only by large crowds of her people, but also by several hand-some displays of her nava! stores, phosphotic rock, woods of all kinds, exhibits of the agricultural products, and canned goods put up by the Brunswick Oyster and Fish company. Captain Uriah Dart, ex-Mayor H. T. D

A. T. Putnam, Mayor Colson, and W. E. Kay and others were spoken to, and all of them agreed to take hold of the atter in a substantial way and see what can done. Mr. Dann is president of the Glynn ounty agricultural society and will call a secting of the executive committee of the of the agricultural products of the county. In doing this he will be assisted by Major Colson and Colonel-A. T. Putnam, both of whom are identified with this organization. Captain Dart, W. E. Kay, and others will also work actively in getting up such exhibits as will be furnished by Brunswick.

These gentlemen express themselves firmly in the belief that Glynn county will make a collective exhibit as well as several other handsome

SHOT TO DEATH

While on His Knees Begging for Mercy. A Brutal Murder.

Brunswick, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—A cold blooded murder occurred at Sterling Station, thirteen miles from here, last night, by which George Fuse met his death at the hands of Harry Mason.

It seems that a number of raft hands came over from Darien by ferry to take the up-going train for Lumber City and other points on the East Tennessee road. Among the number were George Fuse and Frank Mason. The party stopped at a store one mile from Sterling and

FILLED UP WITH LIQUOR. The road was again taken, and Fuse and Mason became involved in a row. Fuse accused Mason of trifling with his wife's tions, and a scufile ensued. In the difficulty Mason downed Fuse with an iron bar. Mason recovered himself and the party proceeded. At Sterling the quarrel was renewed, when Mason pulled his pistol, fired and brought Fuse to the ground. Not a hand in the crowd was raised to protect him, and he begged for his life: Mason walked up to him, and while his victim's hands were upraised

Nothing was done to capture him, and he walked around until the train came, when he boarded it, bound for home. An inquest was held today by a justice, and a verdict renwas held today l

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Superintendent Harmon Retires from the Macon, Ga., July 23 .- [Special.]-It has MACON, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—It has been rumored for several days that Superintendent S. S. Harmon, of Robb Home, would resign his position because of general charges that recently he had been neglectful of his duties, all of which has been duly recorded in the columns of THE CONSTITUTION. This neglect of the home, the county hospital, Mr. Harmon says, was due entirely to his ill health.

Today when the county commissioners met, the following communication was handed to them.

Macon, Ga., July 23, 1889.—To the County Com-missioners of Bibb County—Gentlemen: I hereby present my resignation as superintendent of Roft home, to take effect August 1, 1889. Very respect-fully.

home, to take effect August 1, 1889. Very respectfully.

S. S. Harmon.

The commissioners accepted the resignation, and expressed their appreciation of the faithful and efficient services of Superintendent Harmon in times past. He has been superintendent over twenty-five years. The commissioners will meet next Friday at 10 a.m. to elect a superintendent. All applications must be made in writing and handed to Clerk Smith.

Smith.

The commissioners instructed Clerk Smith to draw up a bill to be presented to the legislature, asking that the female and boy convicts be taken off of the Bibb chain gang and be allewed to work on the farm of the Roff home, or on some other farm. The commissioners do not wish women and boys to be at work on the public roads and in contact with the hardened and rough adult male convicts.

Ex-officio County Treasurer Smith, submitted his semi-annual report, which was the largest ever in the twelve years service of that gentleman. This was due mostly on account of the heavy expenses of the Woolfolk trial.

THE CRIME OF LEASING CONVICTS.

What the Hon. W. A. Huff Saw on the Macon and Western Road.

Macon, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—The Hon W. A. Huff, member of the legislature from Bibb, was formerly a popular conductor on the Macon and Western road, now known as

Central, between Macon and Atlanta. Even at this late date, when traveling on the cars, the old habit of walking through the train, formed in the days of his conductorship, still clings to him, and obedient to this impulse on last Friday afternoon, when returning from the legislature in Atlanta to Macon, he arose from his seat and took a walk through the train and by chance saw

that will be of great value to him in his fight against the present convict lease, and which will be graphically presented in his characteristic style when he speaks on his convict bill.
The said spectacle was this: He saw in one of the front cars a band of convicts en route from the Chattahooghee brick yard to some other camp. Some of them were miserable looking objects. About the neck of one was tightly welded a chain that had been there for eight months because the convict had made a break for because the convict had made a break for a mass of blisters, and because of these he could not open his fingers or hand.

In response to the inquiry of Mr. Huff, the convict said that his hand was burnt while forced to handle hot bricks at the Chattahoechee brick yard.

Said the convict, referring to this hand: "That's nothing. Go back yonder and look at the hands of some of those other fellows."

Mr. Huff did as suggested, and he found the hands of several of the convicts in an even worse burnt condition than the one to whom he had first spoken.

Their hands are practically ruined for life.
Mr. Huff was also informed that at times convicts at the Chattahoochee brick-yard while at work have been made to walk en planks so hot that finally they burst into flames.

He was also informed that when business at the brick yard became very heavy and there was not sufficient men force, the femaic convicts have been made to do work and male convicts have been made to do work, and once when one of the women refused to handle the hot brick she was whipped by a guard twenty-five lashes on her nakedness, in the presence of the male convicts.

HORRIBLE GRUE.

Mr. Huff's attention was, called to a soap box in one corner of the car and was bade look in it. He did so and there saw eight or nine small pieces of cold corn pone and a piece of bard, cold fat meat, smaller than the half of one's hand. He was told that this was the sup-per of the convicts, and similar food had been served as their dinner. Most miserable grub, indeed.

Mr. Huff took a piece of the bread and meat and will use it as illustration before Governor Gordon and in the legislature.

Mr. Huff was also informed than when these convicts were about to leave camp, they were barefooted and were to be sent off shoeless, when some one suggested that it would not do to send them through the county barefooted, and shoes were then given them.

A fellow legislator, Hon. Robert Lewis, of Hancock, was on the train, and Mr. Huff carried him to see the sight, and when Mr. Huff presents the matter to the governor or the legislature, he will have this legislator as an eye witness, also the guard in charge of the convicts, and possibly the convicts themselves will be present with their burnt hands.

Mr. Huff will try and get Governor Gordon to cancel the convict lease with the Chattahoochee Brick company.

The member from Bibb is prepared to shell the woods.

Mr. Huff left Macon for Atlanta this morn-Mr. Hun left Macon for Atlanta this morning, and said he would call upon Governor Gordon at once and present the matter to him. If the governor does not act, Mr. Huff will then open fire in the legislature.

Said he: "The burnt hands is infamous; the welded chain for eight months about the negre is inhuman; the lashes on the negre neck is inhuman; the lashes on the negro woman in the manner they were administered was barbarous, and the miserable grub of a piece of cold bread and cold fat meat is damna-

THE BIG SUIT.

A Judge Is Wanted to Preside in the Cotton States Life Insurance Company Case.

MACON. Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—The law-yers in the Cotton States Life Insurance company case are at sea for a judge to preside in the hearing before a jury on the report of the master in chancery. The case was set for this morning to be heard before Judge John T. Clarke, of Cuthbert, but his tragic death T. Clarke, of Cuthbert, but his tragic death at Smithville yesterday made this impossible. Messrs. Henry C. Peeples, J. H. Lumpkin and Z. D. Harrison, of Atlanta; Receiver Peabody, of Columbus, and Macon lawyers, were present this morning when the hour for convening court arrived. An adjournment was had until three o'clock this afternoon, when the lawyers and all parties interested assembled to see what other judge could be selected in the place of Judge Clarke to try the case. It was agreed to telegraph to Judge Jenkins, of Eatonton, to preside, but at a late hour this afternoon no answer had been rehour this afternoon no answer had been re-ceived from him. The jurors summoned on the case were discharged until three o'clock the case were discharged until three o clocal tomorrow afternoon.

This case seems to be of interminable length. It has been running for months and doubtless will continue for months to come. Henry Peeples, of Atlanta, says he has been to Macon eighteen times on this case since it commenced. The case is very intricate, and the lawyers say that no jurist in Georgia was better qualified in every respect than Judge better qualified in every respect than Judge Clarke to preside in it. They pay high tribute to his learning, comprehension and general exalted character. Milledgeville Beats Sparta

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—
The Milledgeville base ball club wiped up the earth with the Spartas this eve by a score of 34 to 15. The feature of the game was the heavy slugging of both teams and the daring base running of the locals. The locals are itching for Madison's scalp, and propose to take it if an opportunity presents itself.

Situation—A Line to Tifton Wanted—Rome, Through Adairsvilleto Gainesville.

Thomasville, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—Railroad talk has about ceased, and to a superficial observer the enthusiasm seems to have cooled down, but there is good reson to believe that solid work is soon to be put in-ly solid men, and then sometiffing must happen. It scarcely appears reasonable that the men at the head of the new railroad enterprise will allow a shortage of a few thousand dollars to deter them from the movement.

There appears no reason to go to Cordele, but a number of reasons why the road should run to Tifion. By going to Cordele, connection is made with the South Georgia and Florida, and with the possible Savannah, Americas and Montgomery. There is also a saving of about three mises in going to Titton ties South Georgia and Florida connection is secured and about forty miles of railroad building obviated. Besides, Tifton is on a direct route to Augusta, connection by a short rail roate, with which city is the ultimatum in railway building for Thomasville. There is already a good timber road, regular grade, and laid with regular rails, fitteen miles long from Tifton in the direction of Augusta. There is also a private road twenty-five unles long, standard gauge, and fifty pound rails, running from Chauncey, on the East Tennesse, Virginia and Georgia to Temperance on the Ocmulgee river. From the end of the Tifton road to Temperance is only twenty-five miles. There is also a pravate to define the proper of the savancady built and in operation a road from Augusta to Dublin. From Dublin to Chauncey is about twenty-five or thirty miles, From the map of Georgia it is seen that these points and these pieces of road are all nearly in a straight line from Thomasville to Augusta. By uniting them by building only about fifty miles necessary to reach Tifton, the road is complete to Augusta, giving the South Georgia and Florida and Brouswick and Western connections at Tifton, and crossing as well the Savancah, Americus and Montgomery ADAIRSVILE, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—The people are again stired up over the prospect of a new railroad running from Rome by Adarsville, connecting with the Richmond and Danwile, to be made at some point near Gainesville. ATLANTA, GA., JULY 24, 1889.

An Obnoxious Amendment. One of the amendments proposed to the charter of the city of Atlanta, which will be considered before the senate committee on corporations today, is to vest the city council with discretion to reject or accept bids in which convict labor or material are used.

If the amendment was for the purpose of prohibiting the employment of convict labor, or the use of convict material in public works, it would have the merit of saying what it meant; but as it is, it simply increases the value of a councilman's vote, enabling him to vote for convict labor if it is to his interest to do so, or to vote against it for the same reason. It furnishes the ward thimble-rigger with an argument to justify his vote, no matter which way it is

The amendment should be rejected because it is not honest legislation; because it deceives the workingmen whom it is supposed to benefit, and because it may be made to play into the hands of wily contractors and trading politicians. The city council already has the right to reject objectionable bids, and if it desires to prohibit convict labor, it should ask for that power in direct terms.

Our Home Interests.

The Jacksonville, Florida, Times-Union indorses a recent editorial in these columns, in which the position was taken that we should beware of "antagonistic railroad legislation" tending to build up rival systems of transportation east and west of us, and rival outside ports.

Our contemporary applies our argument to Florida, and calls upon the people of that state not to dissipate their strength, and waste their opportunities, but to pursue a policy that will build up home interests.

We have outlined the railroad situation so clearly and fairly that it cannot be misunderstood. Under the admirable workings of the state and inter state commissions transportation has been cheapened; Its facilities have been improved; the busi ness of our ports have been increased, and every interest in Georgia has felt the quickening touch of prosperity. No idle fear of railroad combinations should frighten us into undoing the up-building of our home interests. All combinations cease to be dangerous to the people when they are controlled by the people, and to this complexion the railroad problem has come at last. If railroads want to combine, let them combine-they cannot hurt the people so long as the people remain on top.

With our state and interstate commissions on guard we need not fear unjust discrimination on the part of the railroads, and, after ail, that was our greatest danger -discrimination in favor of or against persons and places, and not mere combinations These points should not be forgotten.

The Northern Person.

Some northern person who has been traveling over the south has observed with regret that THE CONSTITUTION building had no United States flag floating from its tall tower on the Fourth of July. This fact has evidently caused the northern person to have a good deal of trouble in his mind.

It is a notable fact that when a northern person has trouble in his mind he writes a private letter to a friend, a copy of which Thus this he gives to the newspapers. northern person failing to observe the stars and stripes on THE CONSTITUTION building writes a private letter to a friend and then gives it to the newspapers.

After awhile some northern person will write to a friend and object to Chinese lanterns for lawn parties on the score that United States flags ought to be substituted. It is a great pity that northern editors who have some respect for their section do not seize the northern person by the back of his neck and spank him in public. There is no reason why the northern person should be permitted to make the north ridic-

The South of the Future.

Some of our exchanges are reproducing a remarkable prophecy made by Wendell Phillips not long before his death. The New England orator said:

"The handwriting is so plain on the wall that none but a fool need mistake it. New England is doomed just as sure as natural laws will produce fixed results. New England has no soil worth mentioning, and her wealth has all been derived from her manufactures. These are gradually leaving her, and eventually they will all go; some to the wes', the most to the south, where the advantage for profitable manufacturing are all located. The coal and from in the south are easily gotten at and inexhaustible in amount, and the from mills, the foundries and machine shorse can go to them better than they can be carried to the shops. Then the cotton and woolen mills must go there, for the raw cotton and woolen mills must go there, for the raw materials are, and are to be, produced there most cheaply, uniformly and better. Then look at the advantages of the extra hours of daylight in a year's run. This of itself is no small matter. As the south grows stronger and stronger, the wealth, culture and power of the country will be centered there until she will become not alone the mistress of America, but the central empire of the world."

Mr. Phillips was always singularly successful in forecasting the future. He seemed to ful in forecasting the future. He seemed to be largely endowed with the prophetic faculty. His utterances concerning the future of the south were spoken long before the rise of our manufacturing industries. In the light of recent developments, who will say that the prediction is not being realized?

The Journalist and the Duke. The London courts have made a mistake in refusing to hear the complaint; of Mr. Simms, the journalist, against the duke of Cambridge.

Sometime ago, when there was a big parade in the streets, the duke pushed Mr. Simms out of his way, and struck him. Alhough an humble newspaper man, Simms believed that he had some rights that a duke was bound to respect. So he went to a magistrate and demanded a warrant for his assailant's arrest. The judge refused to issue it. Then Simms went to a higher court, and it seems that his request has again been refused.

The London judges may not know it, but they are playing with fire. In England, newspaper men stand very near to the people -they not only voice public opinion but make it. Just at present, dukes are not in particularly good odor, and the sturdy commoners who hate them will not be disposed to look complacently upon judges and policemen who hold that a duke is above the law, and is privileged to beat an inoffensive citizen on the street with impunity. Just such arrogant brutality on the part of the aristocracy-just such injustice on the part of the authorities brought on the French revolution. Less than a century ago there was a newspaper man in Paris named Camille Desmoulins. He was abused and snubbed, just as Simms was the other day. He did not forget or forgive. He wrote with all the fire and force of an injured man with a soul full of immortal hate. Finally his day of triumph came. His vote aided in sending the king to the scaffold. One by one he sent other insolent minions of the court to the same disgraceful death He became quite an expert in what we call lynch law, and was so active in these impromptu executions that the people dubbed him the attorney general of the lamp posts. Suppose, now, that Mr. Simms has some of the Desmoulins gall in him. He will find millions of Englishmen to sympathize with him. He is a young man yet, and events move rapidly. He may not figure in a convulsion as bloody as the French revolution, but it is quite within the bounds of possibility that he may live to wreak his vengeance upon the heads of the dukes and judges who now regard him as an outcast without any rights. Democratic ideas are so popular in Engand, and the people are so discontentedso ready to listen to Henry George, or to socialists, anarchists and anybody who advocate revolution, that the great upheaval must come sooner or later. The masses are organizing against the classes, and just such incidents as the little affair between the duke of Cambridge and Mr. Simms are calculated to bring on trouble. The English people used to believe that a few men had a divine right to rule, and beat, and kick them about, but they do not believe it now, and the time is coming when they will make such nabobs as the duke of Cambridge submit to the wild justice of the mob or seek safety in exile.

The School-Book Tax.

People who have children of the school age will be glad to learn that the publishers of text-books are preparing to form a trust. There are some trusts that are vicious in the extreme, and the most of them are organized for the purpose of swindling the public, but we think it can be safely said that the school-book trust does not belong to either of these classes.

It is one of the few trusts formed for selfprotection, and it will have the effect of protecting the public also. The text-book tax is a very serious matter, and it has been a growing evil every year for many long and weary years. The experience of Atlanta parents has not been greatly different from the experience of those of other communi-Cincinnati, some time ago, made a ties. great fuss over the impositions of the schoolbook ring, and the papers were filled with long columns of arguments, explanations and exposures.

What was true of Cincinnati was true of every other considerable school community in the country. Book agents swarmed everywhere, teachers were bought, superintendents bribed, and boards of education subsidized, and the result was that the patrons of the schools were compelled to pay a heavy tax at the beginning of every term to satisfy the demands of the book publishers. The publishers, however, found out that while they were fleecing the public their agents were fleecing them, and now they have entered into a combination to protect

We believe that this is a fair and reason able trust, and this being the case there is nothing to prevent those who are taxed to support the public schools from forming a trust for their own protection. The plan of buying a new series of text-books at the beginning of every school term is an imposition that parents ought to resist, and if they will go about it in a business-like way they will save many a dollar that is now thrown away.

And, so on, one might go right through the list of younger authors of today. It is undoubtedly true that youth and a fondness for dress are closely allied, but the tendency is stronger than ever in doing away with the theory that literary people are as a rule unkempt in dress and person. The social obligations of the modern author are greater, and unless he or she be unusually endowed with genius, eccentricities in dress are not so generally overlooked as in the past.'?

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

"The Railroad Editor."

QUITMAN, Ga, Jully 23 .- Editors Constitution: In the last issue of the Southern Farmers Alliance appeared the following, among a lot of similar dribble similar dribble:

The railroad editor has spread himself in the bought up papers last week."

"This is a direct charge against every paper which opposes the Olive bill, of laving soldiout to the railoads, and is a gratuitous insult to each of them

In another paragraph this veracious sentinel on the watch tower says:

"It is really interesting to look over the country papers of Georgia and see which are in favor of the Olive bill and which oppose it. It shows that the old lines remain unchanged." Indeed, in 1885, when the railroads of Georgia sought to word through the legislature an amend-ment which would have virtually destroyed the usefulness of the railroad commission, there were ment which would have virtually destroyed the usefulness of the railroad commission, there were eight papers in the state which stood by that institution. The Camilla Clarion, edited by Rev. John L. Underwood, as fearless a writer and as honest a gentleman as ever drew the breath of life, and the Albany Medium, then conducted by the writer, were of that number. Both of these newspaper men now oppose the Olive bill.

Where were the editors of the Southern Farmers' Altiance in that almost hopeless fight? I hope they were on the side of the people—on the side of the railroad commission. It is a little strange to me that these gentlemen who assume to express the sentiments of 100,000 alliance men in Georgia should have remained quiet for nearly eleven years while the legislators were going on, session after session, violating their oaths (?) in not carrying in o effect paragraph 4 of the constitution, and it is stranger still that these same gentlemen do not now see, after ten years of observation, that the railroad commission is the medium through which this paragraph is to be practically enforced.

Major Campbell Wallace says the people do not need additional legislation to protect them against railroad monopolies in Georgia, is the Southern Alliance Farmer prepared to say that this grand-old patriot has been bought up?

The Olive bill can in no way benefit the people of Georgia, but if it should become a law it will work incalculable harm in retarding the great tide of progress which is now flowing in our direction.

The legislators who oppose the Olive bill will never have cause to blush for doing so, for in pursuing such course they will be performing a plain, unmistakable duty they owe to Georgia. Yours truly,

THE NEW ELIXIR OF LIFE.

Dr. Brown-Sequard's Eccentric Discovery Said to Work After All.

From the London Telegraph. Despite the sarcasm, general and profes donal, with which the recent experiments made by sional, with which the recent experiments made by M. Brown-Sequard were greeted, there seems to be, after all, some efficacy in the ugly elixir vite invented by the aged and respected physiologist.

A young physician, Dr. Variot, who has aircrady been successful in removing tattoo marks from the skin of several civilized savages, has been induced to test the efficacy of M. Brown-Sequard's "life mixture." He pestled together portions of the flesh dissues of rabbits and guinea pigs, diluted them with water, and injected the compound thus obtained into the bodies of three paupers, aged respectively fitty-four, fifty-six and sixty-eight. The men had never heard of M. Brown-Sequard's solution, and were merely told that they were to be injected with strengthening fluid. We have Dr. Variot's word for it that his three patients, who, before being subjected to the wonderful remedy, were weak, worn, emaclated and melancholy, suddenly became strong, fresh and obserful, took new views of life, and altogether felt as if they had received a new lease of existence.

The experiments failed, however, on two other subjects, but the indefatigable M. Variot is not to be defeated, and he intends to continue in his trials, which, in time, will be communicated in all their precision of technical detail to the Biological society. M. MACON, Ga., July 23 .- [Special.]-There was a little breeze in council tonight, when Mayor Price requested a bill of thirty-one dollars for laying belgian blocks at the mouths of alleys to be paid in open council.

Alderman Cox, chairman of the financial committee, said he was opposed to paying the bill, as council had never authorized the work done, and the contract was not advertised to be let to the lowest bidder, as required by resolution of council. This brought Alderman Proudfit to his feet, who, as chairman of the street committee, had the work done. He said

Alderman Cox said: "It is the public's money, and not yours, sir, that you are spending, and you have no right to do it."

THE VIRTUES OF BUTTERMILK Its Praises as a Summer Drink Sung by One

From the New York News. W. G. McLaughlin, supervisor of The City Record, is one of those gentlemen who are sure that they know just what is best to drink in hot weather, and he never loses an opportunity to be-stow his secret upon the perspiring mortals about him. The beverage in question has at least the merit of being cheap, but he claims for it the cossession of a great many valuable qualities be

He stopped a News reporter one hot day recently and observing the wearisome energy with which the man of the stubby pencil was mopping an intel-lectual brow, he gave him a kindly lecture upon what he termed the folly of not keeping cool "It is perfectly simple, 'he said, "and the formula is comprised in two words—drink buttermilk. It is absolutely the finest hot weather beverage ever devised. It is not only cooling, but refreshing as well, and affords precisely the sort of nourishment 'Many people," he went on, "who feel weak and fagged out make the mistake of trying to eat hearty meals to keep up their strength, when, as a matter of fact, the system requires comparatively little food at such times. Hearty reals make them all the warmer, and impose an undue task upon the diges-tive powers. Now, buttermilk contains a large amount of nutriment in a form easy of digestion, and even when taken ice-cold it does not seem to give such a shock to the nervous system as la uantities of ice water.

"Then, too, the very fact that it contains so much real food, lends to prevent the abutimal craying for excessive quantities of it, such as is produced by the use of beer or ice water, or any of the mu titude of ordinary 'soft' drinks. If one drinks too much he simply sweats all the more, and of c any man of sense knows that strong liquors are not needed in hot weather.

Mr. Branson occupied the next half hour in a very spirited talk on reading. Major Slaton gave some practical thoughts on pedagogy.

No progressive teacher in Georgia can afford to miss the advantages of attending Piedmont Chautauoua this summer. Judge Hook, our very efficient state school commissioner, is presiding over the institute, and is doing everything in his power to make the Peabody a splendid success.

THE STATE ROAD LEASE. A NEW PROPOSITION FROM THE LESSEES.

And an Important Amendment to Be Introduced to the Lease Bill-The Question of Betterments Eliminated-Colonel Simmons Talks.

Probably the most direct and decided step question is a quasi proposition now under con-sideration by both legislators and lessees.

The proposition—while it has not been made definitely by either side—is generally regarded as the happiest solution in view.

"It is simple," said a member of the Western and Atlantic committee yesterday. "It is equitable, and nearly everybody I have talked with is disposed to regard it favorably."

The question is one that has puzzled the best legal minds in the house. The proposed soln. tion disposes of every doubtful question but

Major Cummings, who represents the present essees in the matter, said yesterday:

"The proposition is this-that for the re-mainder of the term of the lease of the present lessees, the road shall be leased by this legislature. The income fom the lease is to be divided as follows: Twenty-five thousand dollars per month to go to the state, and the excess of that amount to go to the present lessees. The state loses not one cent by this arrangement, and the question of betents is settled so far as relates to the road and its appurtenances. The matter of betterments on the surplus of rolling stock involves no legal question. That claim of the lessees is indisputable. The other question is in regard to the taxes paid the state of Tennessee." "Has that proposition been made by the

"No, it has not. I suggested it to a number of legislators today, asking them to consider it while the lessees themselves are considering

An Important Amendment.

Section eight of the bill to lease the State road, which is made the special order in the house for tomorrow, provides that the gover nor, comptroller-general, secretary of state, treasurer and attorney-general, president of the senate and speaker of the house shall examine the bids and determine which shall be accepted.

Colonel Simmons, of Sumter, in speaking of this provision yesterday evening, expressed himself as follows: "While I have no doubt that the officers thus appointed would faithfully and efficiently discharge the duties imposed upon them, they were not elected to perform such duty, and to some of them the task would be an embarrassing one. It strikes me that as the question is a purely business one, it could be best determined by a commission elected by the legislature for that special purpose. Say make up the commission of the covernor, as the bids will require his official signature, the attorney general to determine the legality of the bids, an expertenced rail-road man and two good business men, the last three to be elected by the legislature. "There is another reason why a majority of the commission should be elected by the legislature, and that is, there was a taint attached to the former lease of the road that has made the people suspicious, and it is better to relieve the officers of the state, and especially the predding officers of the legislature, from any cause for suspicion. Ex-officio boards are too often unjustly regarded as 'rings,' while a majority of the board, being elected by the gislature, the members of which are more irectly responsible to the people, no such accusation could be made against it. cusation could be made against it.

"In thus stating the case, I do not mean to reflect upon the integrity of our state officers, for I believe they would honestly do their whole duty in the matter; but it is not only important that the most favorable rental shall be secured for the state, but that the people shall be fully satisfied that the best terms have been secured. I believe that I everywee the shan be tury satisfied on the best terms have been secured. I believe that I express the feelings of the state officers and the presiding officers of the legislature in saying that they would gladly be relieved of the duties which the lease bill proposes to impose upon them."

I looked. ("His home-sick plume they see Waver, all ghostly white, perchance, About you runned rocks where he—") They cried, "Take off your hats to France!

"She is the greatest country yet, Except the one at home" (Ah me!) Said one, "She lent us Lafayette;" And one, "She gave us Liberty!" Then laughed the youngest, "That's the one That lights the world. It shines so high The eagles up above the sun Can see, by it, which way to fly!

"And all the whales" (so babbled he, Nor doubted his glad faith a whit), "A thousand miles down in the sea, Can see which way to swim, by it! "So, if King George's ships, like thoso He sent about the tea, should dare To come again, then I suppose They'd find—they'd find that statue there!"

WHO HOLDS THE TICKET? CONFEDERATE MONUMENT DRAWING LAST NIGHT.

Ticket 2,679 Wins the Capital Prize, and the Holder of it Is Not Known-The Scenes About the Drawing. Ticket No. 2,679 wins the capital prize in the veteran raffle. But it is not yet known who holds the lucky paper, and it is just possible that the prize, along with a number of others, will go into the treasury of the association.

Three thousand tickets should have been sold but only a little over half that number were disposed of. The unsold tickets were reserved by the association, but as they are scattered and mixed up, it was impossible to tell last night just what their numbers are. THE RAFFLE.

People began assembling at the hall last evening as early as half past seven o'clock, and some waited nearly three hours before their suspense was relieved.

By eight the main hall and both parlors of the association were packed with a crowd of ticket-holders and lookers on. They sat in the windows, on the railings in the hall, and even invaded the president's stand. The crowd was largely composed of young men and not a few small boys, but a generous sprinkling of gray-beards was also noticeable.

And they all were confident of winning the capital prize.

No one expected to get one of the smaller ones. When occasionally some one would offer to purchase his neighbor's ticket, the bare proposition only served to increase that neigh-'s confidence in his certainty of holding the lucky number. Nobody wanted to sell out, and even when Colonel Albert Cox announced "only one more prize," tickets could still be sold at par.

Dr. Fox said that more tickets were sold at the hall last night than during all the time preceding the raffle. Colonel Charles A. Crane, Captain W. B. Burke and Secretary Edwards were kept busy all evening signing and passing out the paste-

Some held as many as a half dozen tickets, and others were there with lists of the num-bers held by friends. Every time Colonel Cox announced a number % thousand eyes would steal sly glances at the crumpled bits of paper, and looks of disappointment were conspicuously present.

During the whole drawing there were but two or three persons who gave any signs of holding lucky tickets. It looked as if the winners had all stayed at home.

winners had all stayed at home.

How IT WAS DONE.

Colonel Albert Cox, Dr. Amos Fox, Colonel R. M. Farrar and Mr. Charles E. Currier arrived at the hall about half-past eight. They brought with them the three thousand duplicate tickets and the thirty-eight slips with the amount of the several prizes printed on each. The committee counted each ticket, verifying the numbers, and placed the prize slips in small pasteboard tubes. Then the tickets were placed in one wheel and the prize tubes in another. The wheels were nothing more nor less than peanut roasters, but answered the purpose.

An hour or more was taken up in this work, and all the time the crowd in the next rooms kept up a vigorous pounding and shouting, which was intermingled with the cries of the ticket vendors.

Finally the arrangements were completed and the peanut roasters were taken by the committee into the main hall. They were placed ou the president's stand, and after Colonel Cox had explained the conditions Dr. Fox grasped the crank of one wheel and Mr. Currier the other. Then the doctor cried:

"Let her roll!"

And she rolled, and rolled, and then a little blindfolded boy put his hand in the top of the wheel and drew out ticket No. 1456. Another blindfolded boy put his hand into the other wheel and took out a slip bearing the figures $20.

Colonel Albert Cox took the two and made Colonel Albert Cox took the two and made the announcement. This was continued until the whole thirty-eight prizes had been drawn for. The interest was intense until it was announced that 2,679 had taken the capital prize. Ticket holders then began to weaken, but none were willing to give up hope for some sort of a prize till the last tube was lifted from the wheel.

When the thing was over the crowd got down stairs and out in the air in less time than it takes to tell it. They were packed like sardines, and were nearly melted before the

Yesterday morning Mr. E. P. Chamberlin received a telegram from Judge Marshall J. Clarke, asking him to wire the particulars of his brother's death.

Mr. Chamberlin answered that THE CON-STITUTION contained the full story of his death and that Judge Clarke would receive it yes-terday afternoon at 4 o'clock and learn all the sad details of the tragedy.

It was impossible for Judge Marshall J.

Clarke and Miss Clarke to reach Lumpkin from Haywood White Sulphur springs in time for the funeral, but they started on the journey at once, and will reach there some time today. There were many expressions of sincere regret over the untimely death of Judge Clarke among his legions of friends in the city yes-lerday.

The members of the Atlanta bar, who knew him best, gave vent to repeated expressions of sorrow and rehearsed the many excellent traits of character with which Judge Clarke was gifted.

The family of Judge Clarke have the sincerest sympathies of the entire city, and Atlanta feels this more keenly than any other city in the state, from the fact that this is the home of his distinguished brother, the presiding judge of the circuit, and a man who is beloved and respected by a large constituency of personal friends and professional acquaintances.

SOME CURIOSITIES.

Hon. E. Y. M. Algood presented the state yesterday with a number of Indian curiosities which were taken from a hill on his plantation in which were taken from a fifth off his plantation in Paulding county. The collection consists of peculiarly shaped stones and arrow heads, which were fashioned by the Indians, with peculiar skill, so that they would tear the flesh and make a jagged wound very difficult to heal. The specimens are as hearly perfect as any that have been found.

Mr. N. A. Fratt, the chemist of the George W. Scott Fertilizing Manufacturing company, shows a curiosity he has discovered. It was the lead top of an acid tank, half an inch thick, through which a woodworm had caten its way. After the addresses Mr. Barnes entertained the audience for half an hour with humorous songs and speeches, some of which brought tears to the eyes of many, while others kept the house in a roar of laughter. A Boy Whose Ear is Treated Like Bill Chandler's.

Several small boys were skylarking about the capitoly esterday afternoon in a way that seriously annoyed some of the legislators who were trying to attend to their work.

One of the boys, to show his friends what he could do finally walked into the assembly room and gave a whoop which would have filled a Comanche Indian's soul with envy. He then dodged under one law maker's arm, between another's legs and gained the hall in safety.

Encouraged by success, he returned to repeat the performance, but an outraged legislator was laying in wait for him, and when he got near the door he was seized. By a side wriggle, however, he made good his escape and a lively chase ensued.

Up and down the halls went the fleet-footed urchin and his heavy weight pursuer.

On the second lap the boy ran up the stairs, and when he saw the puffing and blowing legislator toiling up after him he placed the thumb of his right hand to his nose and spread out the fingers in peenliarly sugravating way. As he was about to turn and continue his flight he was captured by a colored porter who had gone round and made a flank movement. When turned over to the legislator, the big building echoed with pitiable howls. He was led to the side entrance by the ear and assisted down stairs by a number fourteen legislative boot.

Yesterday Joe Kelly came into Mr. L. Stelman's place of business, on Peachtree street, and offered to sell a fine gold watch very cheaply.

Mr. Stelman had his suspicions about the man, and he just agreed to take the watch and then he kept his eye on the man.

Lije Neely, Stelman's bar helper, watched the him until he ywant into the French restaurant, and Mr. Stelman telephoned police headquarters. In a few minutes Detective Jue Green and Sergeant Ozburn responded, and caught Kelly while he was still in the restaurant.

On Kelly's person were found a pair of pants belonging to Mr. H. G. Keeney and a pair of shoes stolen from Mr. J. M. McGinnis, taken at the same time the watch was stolen, from a room in McGeever's hotel, on Decatur street. The watch was identified as the property of Mr. Edward O'Donnell, who occupied the room with Mr. Keeney and Mr. McGinnis. Mr. Keeney lost a gold watch and chain which were not recovered.

M. Burns, who was with Kelly about the time the goods were stolen, was also arrested yesterday. He is from Ohio, and has just served out a term in the chaingang for stearling eighty cents. Both men are held at the stationhouse.

A Pretty Shopper and Some Ugly Ones-The German to Be Danced at Salt Springs-Foints About

People You Know. It is astonishing to notice how women will go shopping when they won't go anywhere else, and how an Monday marning the stores are crowded how on Monday morning the stores are crow with the bargain-bunsing female. On that day the hottest, weariest looking lot filled "the dry goods and millinery stores, and the clerks all wore a look of hopeless fortitude as they hauled down innus merable muslins and laces for inspection.

"Do you know," said a long suffering clerk, that I'd rather serve fifty women in December than twenty in July."

Here he shook his head dolefully.

"They are cross, are they?"

"Well, if they are not cross, they are tired, and generally both. They seem to feel that they owe us a grudge for existing and bringing them out to suffer all this discomfiture. They drop down on the first stool they come to and ask for something. When it is shown, they remember it isn't what they want. When you set what they think they want you find en you get what they think they want, you the pattern or the color doesn't suit. If you are sind and obliging, and of a Christian nature, will show the hot, tired twelve o'clock shopper on a July day everything in the establishment before she leaves it without making a purchase.

I turned and left the store with a vow to reform

I turned and left the store with a vow to reform my own sex in their wickedness. At the door a young girl came in. She looked like a white lilly in a seething hot swamp of people.

Does anybody know who she is? In the winter she wore dark gowns and a white sunbonnet, and she must go to school because she nearly always carries a book in her nearly always carries a book in her narrow, delicate little hand.
Yesterday she was all in white, a slip of a gir resterons see was all in white, a stip of a gir not over sixteen, with a face delicate and rosy, eyes very blue, lips refined, sweetly curved and crimson. The little bonuet seems peculiarly her own. It is short-curtained, with a high puffed crown and a narrow brim that forms the sort of setting to her face that the daisy leaves give to their gold heart.

Grenze ought to come back to life to make this young creature's beauty immortal. I think he must have painted her in heaven and sent her loveliness down to bless humanity. The next time I see her I'm going up and tell her how much obliged the world is for her existence and much good it does me to think of her this very minute, as I sit writing under this hot light.

God bless pretty women, anyhow! Beauty may be but skin deep, but give me the skin and defend me from that ugliness which goes to the bone. It hath ever seemed a comfort to some homely females to decry the beautiful members of their sex, to shake their homely heads and predict such an end for good looks as the old saw gives to female whistlers. For my part, however, I find pretty women most agreeable and ugly ones exceptionally so, George Eliott in the character of Helty. Sorrel depicts that beauty of form and face which has no inner grace, but it is not often that nature enriches the body and leaves the soul house empty. The laws in the animal and vegetable kingdom hold good in the human rare. A beautiful iruit is not often rotten at the core, a beautiful flower is seidom without fragrance.

The weather is hot but that is not going to keep a number of the society people of Atlanta from having a good time Friday evening, when they will take a private car and go to Salt Springs to enjoy an elegant german given by the members of the Nine O'clock German club at the Sweetwater Parkhotel. SOME OTHER JOHNSON.

The Charlie Johnson in the Stationhouse Not Wanted in Decatur.

Yesterday Charlie Johnson, who was arrested Monday night on Wheat street, was released. He stood his trial before Judge Anderson and was fined $20 and cost, after which he was held to await a hearting from Decatur.

The officers there were convinced that he was not the man wanted, and Johnson was allowed to go about his business after paying his fine.

The stabbing was the result of a drinking frolle, in which Johnson and Fred Cole became engaged in a row. A man named Walker attempted to separate the combatants and was slashed across the right hand, making a prinful wound.

Cole was fined $10 and costs for his share in the row.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN

Five pairs of mules and the heavy plow of the street department have been centers of attraction along Ivy street for the past few days. The work of paving the street is being pushed forward rapidly.

Mr. John R. Gramling is making improve-ments in his home on Peachtree. In the block next beyond him Mr. Gress's new house and the Cook homestead are being pushed for ward rapidly.

There is a great deal of building in progress in different parts of the city—more than stay—at-home people could be made to believe. The many little houses, and big ones, going up in the heart of the city and in the suburbs indicate a steady, healthy growth. Rentable houses are few and far between, and real estate is, all in all, in a condition calculated to make the dealer happy.

A good deal of work is being done at the Technological school these summer days. A number of the members of the junior class have been making up some work on which they are behind. Then there are on hand a good many students who are being paid for their labor. The school has under way considerable work for manufacturing establishments in different parts of the state and does a good deal of job work besides. The fruit commission men of Atlanta handle

The fruit commission men of Atlanta handle a great many peaches in the course of a season. Their stores are full of different varieties now. "The season is one of the best in years," said a prominent grower. "My only trouble is that I can't get them off the trees fast enough. For good varieties the price is all that we can expect: the little common peaches don't bring much, but there is always a good sale for the fine varieties."

Bananas at ten cents a dozen-very ripe ones at five. That's pretty cheap living.

THROUGH THE CITY. The work of laying belgian blocks on Edgewood avenue is progressing rapidly. Nearly one-fourth of the street is finished, and it will not be long before the electric dummies are put on. The blocks are laid so close to the tracks that they will not offer as much inconvenience to vehicles as regu-lar street car tracks.

The committee of coroners appointed to prepare a memorial for the legislature has not yet com-pleted its work, but it is probable that it will be fin-ished sometime today.

Because She Thought He had Married An-other Woman. "Judge, I wants to get a warrant for husband, 'cause he's gone and married again."

That was 'the way Frances Wright put it before Judge Pat Owens yesterday afternoon.

When the judge questioned her she said Ed. Wright, her husband, had married Maud Sovener last Tuesday, obtaining a license under the name of William Wright. Wife number one had been to Manda's house on Mangum street, and she acknowledged the marriage. Rev. Mark Bird also confirmed the story, and she wanted the law to take hold of the wayward Ed. and handle him for his offense.

Judge Owen wanted her to wait till this morning for the warrant, but she said her husband was fixing to leave town. The warrant was issued and placed in the hands of an officer.

Frances then went on her way rejoicing.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Increased activity and a large increase in the volume of speculative business was witnessed in wheat today, prices averaginn higher all around. A nervous and unsettled feeling sgain prevailed, however, and fluctuations were frequent within a range of 1½c.

A fair degree of speculative activity was manifested in corn, and higher prices were established. Tradium however, was rather, a range of the flucture.

Trading, however, was rather spasmodic, fluctuations covering 1/40%c. range. The better tone was attributed mainly to an active cash demand, better cables and a firm feeling in wheat. Transactions were confined almost entirely to the near futures—July, August and September. The market opened at about the closing prices of yealerday, was firm and gradually adaptaced 1/40%c. eased off 1/4c. and gradually advanced 2/6%c. cased off 2/c., fluctuated frequently, and the final quotations were 2/c. to 5/c. higher than yesterday.

In oats a firmer feeling was developed, and prices averaged slightly higher, but price changes were confined within narrow limits.

Mess pork was easy. Early it advanced 21%c., but a weaker feeling was soon developed, and prices receded 12@17%c. Toward the close the market was quiet, but a trifle steadier, and prices improved

21/4@5c. Lard, little doing. The early sales were at yesterday's closing figures, but a reduction of 25,65c was submitted to later, and the market closed

The Petroleum Market. NEW YORK, July 23—The petroleum market was active today, and transactions were heavier than yesterday. The opening was firm at 93½c, and on heavy buying the price for spot moved up to 991/2c and 991/4c for August option. The close was firm at 99%c.

SOUTH BOULEVARD FOLKS ARE VERY MUCH EXCITED

) Account of an Insolent Negro Who Insults Every White Woman That Passes Near the Grove in the Rear of Lambert's Garden.

There is a brutal negro over in the neighborhood of the South Boulevard who will be severely dealt with whenever he is caught. A raid was made for him last night without Yesterday morning Mrs. Sallie Howell was passing along Fair street, near the cemetery, when she encountered the negro.

He came out of a patch of bushes just in the rear of Lambert's garden, and used such in-sulting gestures that the lady was badly rightened and raised a cry.

She had her baby of three mouths in her arms and two children, aged three and five years, with her. The oldest child was alarmed by her mother's cries and called out:

"Mama, youder is a policeman."
The negro heard the child, but simply broke into a loud laugh and disappeared in the

Mrs. Beaseley, an old lady living in the country, was another victim of the same negro's advances. She was very badly fright-

Mrs. McCord, wife of Glenn McCord, was insulted in like manner, and she feels quite sure that she can identify the negro if he is brought before her.

He is described as a negro of medium size, copper colored, middle aged, and rather neatly dressed. He wears a straw hat and looks like a man who is earning fair wages.

Public opinion has been excited to a pretty high pitch out there, and the general impression is that if the negro is caught he will be roughly dealt with.

Domestic Ammonia!

DOMESTIC AMMONIA is sold of the same strength as commercial ammonia water, at less than half the price, and is tue cheapest cleansing material in the world. Used according to directions, one table-spoonful is equal to one-third of a pound of best soap. When used with either hot or cold water, it leaves the skin smooth and soft, and does not injure the most delicate fabrics. All preparations of potash, soda or lime roughen and irritate the skin and rapidly destroy clothes.

DIRECTIONS.

DIRECTIONS.

For the Laundry—Seak the clothes over night in cold water containing one tablespoonful of ammonia to a pail of water, soaping the most solled parts. In the morning wring them out, put them on the table and soap well. Then put the clothes into the boiler filled with cold water and only one-half a tablespoonful of ammonia to a pail of water. After the boiler is packed full, put it on the fire till it boils; then rinse the clothes thoroughly in two warm waters and one clear water, and then blue them.

Flauncis and blankets soaked a few minutes in a pail of water containing one tablespoonful, and one-fourth the usual amount of soap, and rubbed as little as possible, will become perfectly white without shrinking.

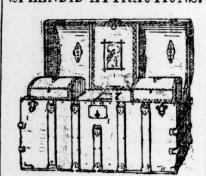

Clothes stained or soiled in the sick room, soaked over night in a pail of water, with two tablespoonfuls of homestic Ammonia, can be rinsed clean in common water.

To clean and brighten silks, laces and woolen goods—Spoage with water containing a little Domostic Ammonia.

For the toilet—Use half a teaspoonful to a basin of water, or one tablespoonful for the bath tub. It will give absolute cleanliness, destroy all odor arising from perspiration, and leave the skin in a perfectly smooth, soft and heaithy condition.

FOR COMMON SCHOOLS

AS OPPOSED TO THE BRANCH COL-LEGES OF GEORGIA.

Able and Eloquent Addresses by Two College Presidents-Dr. Nunnally and Dr. Candler at the House of Representatives.

The representative hall was crowded last night by an audience assembled to hear the two speeches on higher education.

Every seat on the floor of the house was occurred.

cupied by members and their friends, and the gallery was comfortably filled. Quite a num-ber of ladies were present, and distinguished men from all parts of the state, especially those most prominent in educational matters.

Both speeches were listened to with marked attention and the remarks of both gentlemen were warmly received,

President duBignon was chairman of the Mr. doBiguon first introduced Dr. Nunnally.

DR. NUNNALLY SPEAKS.

Dr. Nunnally said:
Fellow citizens—for such I take you to be—for I am a Georgiau, born in Georgia. The first air that fanned my cheek came from the corners of a little log house redolent with the aroma of pine and sassairas; the first water I ever drank gushed out from the wild rock spring under the hills. My early sports and tramps were over the old red hills early sports and tramps were over the old red hills of Georgia. My playmates were the negro urchins on the farm and many a time I have pillowed my head on their breast of the old colored mammy and from the cradle I went out to school.

Dr. Nunnally, gave a vivid description of his first school experience, then of going from one sensol to another, through the academy to college and the university, and then back to the schoolroom as a teacher. Twelve years of his life were devoted to the common school and academy. In the various capacities of county school commissioner, trustee of institutious of higher learning and occasionally a member of the board of trustees of the university—for eighteen years since the introduction of the public school system he had given more or less thought to the solution of the problem of the education of the people.

bublic school system he had given more or less thought to the solution of the problem of the education of the people.

Many talk as if Georgia is making less grogress in educational matters than ever before. But let us see. What do the catalogues of our several colleges show concerning the classes which have been graduated during the last twenty-five years? During the past twenty-five years? During the past twenty-five years? During the past twenty-five years from 1864 to 1839 more graduates have received the jomas at the State university, at Mercer university, and at Emory college than were ever issued during any other twenty-five years in the history of these institutions.

It is true that a few years ago some of our old well known academies crumbled in pieces and some of the smaller ones were closed. Various causes are suggested as the occasion of this; but how is it today? A recent inquiry made by me during the last three weeks by making application to 400 parties, distributed through the state, brings me a return which shows that there are more schools of high grade in Georgia today that we ever had before. The graduates from our high schools and colleges are finding ong lyment in the schoolroom as teachers. Weeky "failure failure!" but all its not lost. The present is full of energy; the future is levin with hope.

MEUCATION IS NOT A UNIVERSAL PANACEA.

We are disappointed because we had expected immense results from an education. We have entertained false views of the objects of education Education is not a panacea for the ills of life. Education does not make bread and raiment casy of access. The law still is written out and is of universal application that in the sweat of the brow man must eat his bread, and whether that brow be palled with the mild sunlight of the classic shade or whether it be brouzed under an open sky in the wide fields, still in the sweat of his face shall he find his food.

Elucation does not give man an easy place. Howe is the said young men, there are no easy places. You waste y atton in your entire tags can relieve it of all disappointments.

But we come now to look at this subject from a legislative standpoint. What does a government expect from its citizens, and what education is needful to prepare them for the wise and successful discharge of those obligations, and to meet the responsibilities of citizenship? Well, we might ask another question: Is it the duty of the state, and is it the interest of the state to educate its citizens at all, and if so when should the state begin to educate the child and at what point should the state let go its hold? I announce this maxim and I hold that it is uncontrovertable, that as long as the education which the child is receiving is of more benefit to the state than to the individual it is the duty of and the interest of the state to give it, but when that education reaches a point at which it benefits the individual more than it benefits the position that only an that the individual himself should obtain it at his own charges.

Dr. Nunally then took the position that only an education sufficient to enable a man to vote intelligently, do jury duty and inform himself about the general principles of government was necessary. He pointed this by calling attention to the fact that of fitty jurors, half university men and half men of medium attainments, the lawyers would take most of the jury from the bisin men. He disclaimed hostility to the State university, his alma mater, and hoped that it would become a university in fact, where graduates of all colleges in the state could perfect themselves in any specialty they might choose.

But it is said that the university must have feeders, and for that purpose measures have been pending before you looking to the establishment of branch colleges—one in each congressional district. One paragraph of history is worth a whole page of prophecy, and one hour of experience is worth a year of theory. We have had the branch colleges. Let us see if they fed. If so, whom did they feed?

Dr. Nunnally spoke of a conversation he had once had with the chancellor about these branch colleges, when taking one as an instance the chancellor showed that in six years fifteen thousand dollars had been expended on the college, while he could recollect only two our three boys sent from that college to the university. Continuing, Dr. Nunually said:

"Fifteen thousand dollars expended and three AGAINST BRANCH CORLEGES.

recollect only two or three boys sent from that college to the university. Continuing, Dr. Nunually said:

"Iffeen thousand dollars expended and three boys brought to the university! No, fellow-citizens, these branch colleges do not feed the university. They sap it. They intercept the university and it is easy enough to account for. You call it a college and the boy, when he entersit, experiences the peculiar conceit and pride that he is going to college, and when he has finished the course at his academy and receives nis certificate of proficiency, he flaunts it in the breeze in the face of his old comrades, and he says "Here's my diploma." What does he care for the university?

Their means used, their means improved and under such treatment they are disastrous to the State university. To increase their number is to increase the force and that injures and cripples the scope and patronage of the State university, and if they were but sufficiently increased, the result would be empty halls at Athens and crowded class rooms at the branch colleges, and this later bill which proposes now a branch college in every county of the state. It is but the same in principle and to a large degree would be the same in result. Aside from being practically inefficient in accomplishing the ends desired it is infquitious in principle. It is unfair to the masses, it is unjust to the people. For though you may multiply them even to this extent of one in each county, still they are inaccessible to the vast multiudes of the people scattered in the regions round about. Whatever argument condemns the branch colleges when there were four or obtained against if in the suggestion of ten is equally available in crushing it and condemning it when you propose to multiply it until there shall be a bundred and thirty-seven.

But some one says, "Do you propose to destroy all seducation?" Oh, no, but if it is a common senool.

be a hundred and thirty-seven.

But some one says, "Do you propose to destroy all education?" Oh, no, but if it is a common senool, and such the organic law demonstrates it, let it reach the common people, left be equally accessible to every citizen as far as possible. But you say, to that suggestion, that we have not the means to provide common school facilities for all the people of school age in the state. Let us examine this matter.

WHAT ARE OUR KESOURCES?

We have the poll tax, the license tax, the show tax, the liquor tax and the income from the state road—sufficient to a certain extent to run a school three months. We make this proposition and suggest to the members of the general assembly this measure as one that is compenient to meet the necessities of the case.

A SCHOOL SYSTEM PROPOSED.

the members of the general assembly this measure as one that is compentent to meet the necessities of the case.

A SCHOOL SYSTEM PROPOSED.

I claim that under suitable arrangements the money above referred to is adequate to run schools in the state of Georgia for eight months, and run schools in sufficient number to make them accessible to all the children of the state—none perians finding it needful to walk more than two or two and a half miles to the door, and that distance is mone too great for the health of the body or the peace of society.

This is my measure: Let the state demand a high-grade teacher. Place the standard for the teacher high. A mas thoroughly competent, a man who knows what the office reculres and has the ability to perform it. Next let the state say to the citizens that the state will run the school four months, provided the community in which it is located will run it four other months, and the coildren who attend while the school is run as a private school shall be eligible to attend while it is a public school. When this is done, at once, you see, it diminishes the number of schools but still leaves enough in the several counties to make them easily accessible. But it is objected that there are conditions prescribed which are unwarranted and fillegal. It is urged that the constitution demands that it shall be a system of public schools tiroughout; but then every privilege guaranteed by the constitution is hodged about with conditions. It is a constitutional privilege to run for office but if a man secures the requisite majority if a county treasurer or tax collector he must give bond and if he fails to do so, whether from poverty or other cause, he loses the privilege of holding the office. The same thing obtains in school matters.

comply with the conditions simply lose the privillege. It is their misfortune. But the deficiency is casily supplied in this way—in the average neighborhood a school eight months would not be run more than three or four years consecutively, for that constitutes a generation in school life—three or four years. The school would break down. The parent would say, "We can't stand this loss of labor, this expense of tultion during four months any more; we must put our boys to work in the field."
In the meantime, the adjoining district, which has had no school during four years, discovers the absoiute necessity of doing something, and they employ a teacher and run a school three or four years. So, between the ages of six and eighteen, there are at least three or four generations of school life and you will generally find it to be the case that in some way or other in one of those generations, every child will have an opportunity of two or three years instruction in the schools, and though school districts may go for three or four years without a school, still a neighboring district for the same time is running a school that does good work.

Dr. Nunnally then considered the kinds of education. Physical development alone could produce a John Sullivan and a Jake Kilrain. One was enough for a country and two nauseated it. Muscle and mind fully developed would produce an Ingersoll. A third element, moral culture, was necessary, and that was moral education, showed by Christian men for Christian education, showed by Christian men for Christian education, showed by their success that education should be under the direction of Christian men.

After Dr. Nunnally's address Dr. Candler

f Christian men. After Dr. Nunnally's address Dr. Candler

Dr. Candler's Remarks.

Dr. Candler's speech was an argument for the common schools. He pointed out what denominational colleges had done for higher schooling.

denominational colleges had done for higher education.

"The church may be regarded," said he, "as the parent of higher education. Of the 365 universities and colleges in the United states, 278 are denominational schools, and of the 65, 600 college students 50,000 are in denominational schools. L. M. C. Lamar, of the supreme court of the United States, is none the less a good judge because he graduated at Emory, nor was Judge John T. Clarke any the less an able and honest judge because he graduated at Mercer. If you will look at the lists of great Georgians you must agree with me that they have done good, and great good. All this time they have cost the state nothing. The church colleges come now to ask simply that no unfriendly legislation be allowed to cripple them. They do not ask for appropriations. Surely the state can do no less than to let them prosper and do do not ask for appropriations. Surely the state can do no less than to let them prosper and do can do no less than to let them prosper and do good to the state, remembering always that it costs the state not one cent.

There are two theories held to bear on this matter of education. Learned men and honest men differ in their views. One plan is to build up the universities and let their light brighten the way lower down. The other is to build up the common schools first.

An answer to those who believe in making the universities the first consideration is found in a letter of Thomas Jefferson's. He found that the universities turned out hundreds of lawyers, but no teachers.

It is so everywhere, and Jefferson pointed out that the nations of Europe were so many examples of this, and showed the danger of having a few educated at the neglect of the many.

There are 490,000 children between the ages of six and eighteen in Georgia outside the cities, and 465,738 of them outside of cities and towns. Think of that. If those were 495,738 cows to be considered, our friends of the Farmers' Alliance might take hold of the matter. If those were 465,738 sheep, the dog law you are considering now might stand a better chance. If that generation of 465,738 was a crop of barley instead of a crop of children, wouldn't you be more anxious about it? In a few years they will have passed beyond the school age—every one of them. What is to be done for them should be done quickly.

Dr. Candler appealed in his own humorous, logical, eloquent way for the building up of the common school system—something that would reach the 465,738. He showed that longer school terms would call for better teachers, and this of itself does much toawrds higher education. There are 490,000 children between the ages higher education.

The scheme for one branch college in every "The scheme for one branch college in every district won't do," said Dr. Candler. "nor will the modification of that plan, establishing one in each county of the state. The effect of such a school in a county is to build up the immediate vicinity at the expense of the other portions of the county. It educates the few in the corporate limits and leaves the country boy and country girl as ignorant as ever."

Boy one year and a half old. Face and body in a terrible condition, being covered with sores. Sulphur springs fail. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your Cuticura Remedies in two cases where it proved to be successful. The first was in the case of a boy a year and a half old. His face and body were in a terrible condition, the former being completely covered with sores. I took him to the Massena Sulphur Springs, but he did not improve any. I was then advised to try the Cuticura Remedies, which I did. He took one and one half bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, when his skin was as smooth as could be, and is today. I used the Cuticura on his sores and the Cuticura Soap in washing him. He is now five years of age, and all right. The other case was a disease of the scalp, which was cured by washing with the Cuticura Soap and rubbing in the Cuticura, one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent being used. They have proved successful in every case where I have advised the use of them. It is surprising how rapidly a child will improve under their treatment. I recommend them for any disease of the skin as being the best in the world. This is my experience, and I am ready to stand by my statement.
